THE CELLARS AT BROOKPARK FARM

"The Venue to Reveal Your True Love Story"

50 Brookpark Circle | Lewisburg, PA 17837 | 570-524-9820 | www.thecellarsatbrookpark.com

I take you,
to be my best friend and my one true love.

The Cellars at Brookpark Farm, constructed in 1929, was the original potato and apple cellar on the Reitz Farm. The building was considered "modern agriculture" for the time period and John Reitz was well known in the area as the "Potato King of the Buffalo Valley." The building was fully restored in the 1980's and remodeled in 2012 into a rustic-industrial event space. This, combined with the quaint surrounding community will make your big day both memorable and exclusive.

Onsite Ceremonies

The Cellars has a number of options for brides who would like to have their big day all in one place. Near The Cellars is a beautiful yard with a large mature sycamore tree that provides a picturesque backdrop for your perfect place to say "I Do!". Your guests will be seated in white chairs on the lawn to watch as you make your way down the aisle to be united with your best friend. It's a great place to capture beautiful images at all times of the year! All ceremonies include a "rehearsal" and "day of" coordinator for the ceremony.

If you aren't one to gamble with the constantly changing weather conditions we also offer ceremonies indoors in both the lounge and banquet room. Don't worry though, your guests won't be trapped in the same space for the entire duration as we transition them through The Cellars to create an evening to remember.
